GOVERNMENT MAY OPEN COAL MINES WITHIN 48 HOURS

DRASTIC ACTION FOR PUBLIC WELFARE IS PRE-DICTED.

UNDER U. S. FLAG

A Call for Volunteer Miners Possible; Troops Would Guard Operations.

Washington.—Intimations were given in well informed governmental circles Monday afternoon that the administration was preparing to take drastic action within the next 48 hours in the coal strike situation.

The president was represented as being of the opinion that, inasmuch as the miners' representatives were undecided on acceptance of the proposal, that the interest of the public demanded immediate reopening of the mines.

Under U. S. Protection

With this feeling, it was said, the president was prepared to direct the mine operators to reopen their mines at once, under protection of federal troops and with an American flag planted at the entrance of every mine to be operated.

The operators would be expected to comply immediately with such an edict.

The president has in mind, it was further reported, to pay, if necessary, for a short time a royalty on such coal as would be mined to meet the emergency. If there are insufficient numbers of non-union miners to operate the mines, when reopened under government protection, it was indicated that a call for volunteer miners would go out from the government, officials believing there are thousands of miners, now engaged in other pursuits, who would respond to such a call.

Must Have Coal

The same method of dealing with the railroad situation must be used, it was said, if conditions soon do not change for the better. The administration, it was added, is determined no longer to be balked in its efforts to secure the coal needed for the public and the industries of the country get sufficient coal.

MRS. POSCH, 75, IS STRUCK WHILE CROSSING STREET

FATAL ACCIDENT OCCURS AT MILTON AVE. AND WALKER ST.

DEATH IN BELOIT

Joseph Rosenthal, 63, Killed When Hit by Monticello Car.

Two lives were lost in accidents in Rock county Sunday, one woman being fatally injured in Janesville when struck by a street car and a man killed at Beloit when struck by an automobile.

The dead are:

Mrs. Elizabeth Posch, 75, of 939 Walker street.

Joseph Rosenthal, 63, of 1419 Bluff street, Beloit.

The accident at Janesville occurred at the corner of Milton avenue and Walker street at 1:05 p. m. Sunday, when Mrs. Posch was brushed aside as she ran in front of the street car driven by James King, which was running toward the switch.

Motorman Sounded Warning.

The only version of the accident has been secured from Mr. King, who said he did not see Mrs. Posch until the street car was almost at the corner. He called out "switch" and rang the bell and applied the brakes as the car came to the point where she was crossing, he said. Another step and Mrs. Posch would have escaped. She was struck by the side of the car and thrown to the pavement.

"When 40 feet from the corner I shut off my power and was coasting, as many times people come rushing to catch the car," said Mr. King. At that time Mrs. Posch was in the street. The woman came out, I believe, from the east side of Walker street and crossed in front of the car just as I got there."

Unknown for 4 Hours.

Mrs. Posch, whose identity at that time was not known, was taken to Mercy hospital in a car driven by Carl Hanson, Milton avenue. She was unconscious and for four hours her identity was not known. She was identified by the coroner as Mrs. Posch. She was 75 years old. Her husband, Charles Posch, died in 1911. She was a widow.

C. OF C. OFFICIALS LAUD PROHIBITION

Civic Asset, Officers in Various Parts of Country Declare.

Evansville.—Prohibition was declared to be a civic asset by officials of Chambers of Commerce in some of the leading cities of the country in statements sent to The Union Signal, the official publication of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and made public by that organ today.

The Union Signal quoted the following officials:

James S. Gady, secretary of the Indianapolis Association: "Prohibition has proved an economic asset in our community. It has promoted thrift and has been beneficial generally to the interests of our city."

James C. Gady, secretary of the Springfield, Mo., Association: "Prohibition has been helpful to the community for the reason that the coming generation has not had the access to liquor that the past generation had. In other words there would seem to be less opportunity for the members of the next generation to become addicted to the liquor habit."

Is Economic Asset.

Nelson Harshman, associate-secretary, Springfield, Mass., Association: "I believe that prohibition has proved to be an economic asset to this community and that it has promoted thrift among our people. A statement from the various savings banks shows that more people have savings accounts and that the balances are larger."

"The charitable organizations of the city are taking into consideration the recent business depression, there are fewer people receiving aid than during the time before prohibition. The former saloons in many cases are being used for other lines of business."

"Prohibition has been, I believe, very beneficial to the general interests of our city."

William A. Searle, secretary-manager, Camden, N. J., Chamber of Commerce, took a pool of representative citizens. (Two bankers, a clergyman, and an insurance man. Salvation Army leader, a Y. M. C. A. secretary, chief of police, a large manufacturer, the director of the Bureau of Charities and his own.

Here Are Answers.

The questions and answers follow:

Has prohibition proven an economic asset to your community? Yes, 7; No, 2; Uncertain, 2.

Are there fewer people receiving aid than during the time before prohibition? Yes, 6; No, 1; Uncertain, 4.

Are fewer people receiving aid from charity organizations as a result of prohibition? Are there fewer delinquents and dependents in your institutions? Yes, 6; No, 2; Uncertain, 4.

Are the buildings formerly occupied by liquor concerns now used for other lines of business? Yes, 10; No, 1; Uncertain, 3.

In your judgment has prohibition been beneficial generally to the interests of your city? Yes, 9; No, 1; Uncertain, 1.

Uncertainty in regard to questions 2 and 3 was due to the fact that unemployment and other factors enter into the question in a way too confusing to permit of a satisfactory answer," Mr. Searle said.

Enthusiastic Over Dry City.

O. O. McLaughlin, acting secretary, Rockford, Ill., Association: "You may place our organization on record as being enthusiastically and energetically favoring both local and national prohibition."

"Rockford was given Camp Grant because it had had a record for many years previous of being a temperate town. Of course, immediately following local prohibition we had several buildings vacated, but only temporarily, as they were filled very soon afterwards by the normal expansion of business."

E. W. Porter, secretary Concord, N. H., Association: "Prohibition has proven an economic asset to our community. It has promoted thrift among our people and the savings banks' depositors are constantly increasing."

"Fewer people are receiving aid from charity organizations and there are fewer delinquents and dependents in our institutions. Buildings formerly occupied by liquor concerns are all used for other lines of business."

"It is my judgment that prohibition has been of the greatest benefit generally to the interests of our city."

MORGAN ATTACKS HAY CROP TO BE PITTSBURGH PLUS RECORD BREAKER

Urges Daugherty, in Letter, to Take Positive Action Against Evil.

Madison.—Attorney General William J. Morgan Monday in a letter to Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, urges that in dealing with the proposed merger of steel producing corporations, the attorney general "take positive action against the 'Pittsburgh plus' practice, and aid the nation to rid itself of this evil."

"One matter that is of vital importance to the people of Wisconsin in relation to the steel industry is the practice of making steel prices upon the basis of the 'Pittsburgh plus' freight from Pittsburgh to the point of delivery," Attorney General Morgan says in his letter to Attorney General Daugherty, which follows in part:

Opinions Are Asked.

"It has come to my attention that you have publicly requested expressions of opinion upon the proposed merger of steel corporations which is before your department for consideration. As you know, the federal trade commission has made formal complaint against the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries with reference to the 'Pittsburgh plus' practice, and is conducting an exhaustive inquiry into the matter."

"It has occurred to me that, in connection with the proposed merger, the matter of fixing prices may come before you for consideration, and in that event, I wish to urge most strongly that nothing be done that will have a tendency to legalize the perpetration of the 'Pittsburgh plus' system, or to embarrass the Federal Trade commission in its treatment of the question now before it. On the contrary, it is my earnest hope that the proposed merger will be so handled that it will be possible for you to take positive action against the 'Pittsburgh plus' practice, and aid the nation to rid itself of this evil."

"Pittsburgh Plus" has been for a number of years a matter of deep concern to the people of Wisconsin as a whole. The manner in which the interests of the state and its people are protected by the 'Pittsburgh plus' practice is well expressed, though of course only briefly, in a Joint Resolution, adopted by the Wisconsin legislature of 1921. This resolution, in addition to setting forth the situation as it affects the people of this state, constitutes an official recognition by the legislative branch of our state government of the public interest involved.

"I trust that the time is not far distant when the 'Pittsburgh plus' evil will be permanently eliminated, and if you can do anything to aid in bringing about that result, either in connection with the proposed steel merger or otherwise, you will in my opinion be rendering a very great public service."

URGES MORE TESTS OF BLIND MARVEL

Dr. Babcock Declares Willetta May Retain Slight Remnants of Senses.

Declaring there is nothing impossible in Willetta Huggins' ability to understand words by resting her hand on the top of the head or on the chest, Dr. Robert M. Babcock, noted Chicago physician, in an article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, suggests a test of Willetta's powers, which will determine how far her powers, Dr. Babcock states, he believes, Willetta sees and hears slightly, as has been claimed by Dr. Joseph Jastrow, psychologist of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Babcock says in part: "I have known of some remarkable feats in the way of touch and smell displayed by persons whose absolute blindness was beyond question. For instance, in the Philadelphia school for the blind where I was a pupil in my boyhood, was a girl born without sight whose delicacy of touch was such that she was able to read with ease, through four thicknesses of a muslin handkerchief, the books of raised letters ordinarily used by sightless persons. In the Perkins school for the blind in New York, I knew of a blind young woman (her name I do not recall) who was said to be able by the sense of smell alone to assort correctly the laundered clothes of the children of the institution."

Staggered by Facts.

"There are instances of such unusual development of special senses that it makes it not very hard to accord to Miss Huggins special powers of sense-perception without, as intimated by Professor Joseph Jastrow, the will to admit that she is not a fraud. I am so staggered by her powers as regards all that Willetta does, I cannot but believe she must see and hear slightly. In fact I so expressed myself in a letter to Mr. Hooper last autumn."

In his reply he stated that he and others had subjected her to tests that seemed to prove beyond question the total deafness of her ears. He stated that I am so staggered by her seeming ability to read what is said by vibrations imparted to a pole resting on the head of the speaker that I still question whether she cannot hear to a limited extent."

Seeks Further Tests.

"There is nothing impossible in Willetta's ability to understand words by resting her hand on the top of the speaker's head or on the chest. I am staggered again by her seeming ability to detect by smell the various colors in skeins of wool or silk, and still more by her recognition in the same way of the colors of natural flowers all the same kind. There are to set this whole matter at rest, I hope Mr. Hooper will set it to shut out all possibility of light by sealing the eyelids by means of court plaster."

OLD TOWNS VANISH TO MAKE WAY FOR IRRIGATED FARMS

El Paso, Texas.—Within less than 200 miles from El Paso five old towns, gradually given away to irrigation waters, and their former sites are now farm lands.

Cantadero, a peaceful Mexican village 120 miles ago, on the banks of the Rio Grande, is one of the places which has been wiped out. Although it withstood the storms and hardships, and some attacks from the Apaches within the last few centuries, the water has washed away the thick, abode walls. Cantadero had a population of 400 persons. Other towns wiped out slowly by irrigation water are Rio Grande and the Elephant Butte dam waters were Santa Rita, with a population of 300; San Agito, 250; San Jose 250; Alamogordo 300. Each had its ancient churches, stores, cemeteries and schools. At these sites have been seen no more, save for a few crumbling walls which the water has not entirely melted down.

and of excluding all sounds by plugging the girls' ears with some sticky substance as putty or chewing gum, and finally test the pole experiment by having some non-conductor, as glass, placed between the skill and the end of the stick.

"In conclusion let me say that I am still of an open mind and desire only to have this question settled beyond the peradventure of a doubt."

"Dr. Joseph Jastrow will never be asked to conduct another investigation of Willetta's powers," said Mr. Hooper when asked about the report that this was contemplated. "All this publicity of his theory regarding a school to get another chance to test the girl. She will be tested, but by other and more eminent authorities than Jastrow."

Willettta Huggins may appear at the Chicago Educational Progress at Chicago. It was said Saturday by Mr. Hooper who has been negotiating with the Chicago show officials regarding this for some time but who has not yet given an answer in response to his partial acceptance of the invitation.

MANY VETERANS BEG IN LONDON STREETS

London.—One of the most distressing sights to American visitors in London is the appalling number of ex-service men begging on the streets. Former soldiers and officers, some of them with distinguished records of valor, have found it impossible to obtain either private or government employment, and are asking out a miserable existence by open mendacity, peddling, grinding handorgans, singing, or giving musical exhibitions in the streets. American tourists and others are openly assisted in the streets for the price of a meal or lodgings by these unhappy men. A picture of another kind is visible in the present busy and lavish social and court centers of London. The extravagance and improvidence among the rich, American visitors who are another kind of thousands of the nation's demobilized defenders, while the money needlessly lavished on dress, style and empty court ceremonials would keep them clothed for a year.

GOLF CLUB INVITES BLACKSNAKES TO BE AT HOME ON GROUNDS

(By Associated Press.)

Cootesville, Pa.—Blacksnakes seeking a comfortable home, rent and tax free, are invited to the golf links of the Cootesville Country Club. Along the sides of the course underbrush has been permitted to grow thick, and tempting rock piles with full southern exposures have been placed to lure the snakes from adjacent lands.

An educational campaign has been inaugurated among golfers with an aversion to reptiles in order that the snakes may be regarded as a natural enemy of the ground mole, which admittedly is the natural enemy of golf greens. Not only does the snake go right into the mole's borings and discourage that animal's operations, but it is alleged to kill off rattlers and copperheads. It is harmless to mankind and is unlikely to appear suddenly to disconcert a player about to putt, for it works at night.

WOMEN OF EUROPE IN BIG MAJORITY

Number 25,000,000 More Than Men; War Years Widened Gap.

Berlin.—Man's minority on earth as compared to women, a fact even before the war, has been increased by that conflict until today it is estimated that there are 25,000,000 more women than men in Europe alone.

Official statistics published here show that the surplus of women in Europe has increased by 15,500,000. Before the war there were 1,035 women to every 1,000 men; now the proportion is 1,111 to 1,000. The rising surplus has been most marked in Russia where the number of women has grown from 1,042 to 1,299 for every 1,000 men. This is the basis of figures for 25 governments. The situation has also been notably changed in Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Great Britain, Luxembourg, France, and Italy. In Germany, exclusive of upper Silesia, there are 1,150 women to every 1,000 men, whereas before the war there were, about 1,026. On the contrary, the number of surplus women has decreased in Denmark, Sweden, and the Netherlands.

An outstanding feature of the situation is that girls of marriageable age are in the minority in the surplus, most of those in the excess classification being of older years and many of them widows.

BIG BUILDING INCREASE

Reports of building operations continue to be more than optimistic. During June in 27 northern states contracts were let for $34,440,000 worth of new structures. That is 52 per cent over June 1921. In the central west, though the figures are even larger, there were June contracts amounting to $104,412,000 or 74 per cent greater than June of 1921. Since January the construction in this district has amounted to $471,000,000 and 45 per cent greater than the six months of last year. More than three billion dollars in new work is contemplated in the period of the first six months to July 1. This is an immense amount of building and is one reason why there is a shortage of help in the building trades. Many contractors are being held up because labor is so scarce. And there seems to be no way to get additional workmen.

Germany seems to have overshot the mark.

THE POSITION OF SENATOR LENROOT ON THE TARIFF

Senator Lenroot does not oppose a tariff. What he does oppose is a high duty where none is required and beyond the need for the product. That too, is the attitude of other republican senators who join with Senator Lenroot in his fight for reduction on specific articles. His position squares with years of republican doctrine and the principle of protection which has been a fundamental of the party faith. Nor does he assume a selfish attitude demanding duties for products in which his constituents are interested and opposing others wherein he has no personal interest as representative of the people of Wisconsin. That position in the senate is left to a group of democrats who have violently debated against all protective clauses in the bill until the peanut, sugar or cotton has been affected and then those senators have become rampant protectionists.

It is made much of that the exports from the United States to Europe have fallen off to a tremendous extent. The reason is simple: Europe is flat broke and can only buy our goods by trading us products which we make ourselves in our own factories with our own workmen. The theory that we should buy from Europe at the expense of our own factories does not appeal to the average American laborer, merchant or farmer. The greatest benefit of a tariff is that it secures the American market for our own farmers and manufacturers. This American market is the largest in the world. There is nothing to equal it. Nor do we intend to give it up without a fight. If we have to lick all the international bankers and demagogues who demand a low tariff which will open markets to Europe.

What we are in industry and agriculture in the world's productiveness and in commercial greatness we owe to the far-sighted American policy of tariff protection. It would seem that it is a good plan not to throw it all overboard. In making that tariff it is of course necessary so arrange the duties that none will be high enough to defeat the purpose of the policy or to work a hardship to the public. Therein lies the need for statesmanship and a high order of business acumen in our congressmen. That is the position of Senator Lenroot on some of the schedules.

PARENTAL OBLIGATION

Two boys in Kansas City were wandering about with a loaded gun and looking for targets. One other boy peered the one carrying the gun and a shot was fired. The boy aimed at fell dead with a bullet in his head. The dead boy was 8, the boy who shot him was 9. "There should be a law against the manufacture and sale of guns for any other purposes than war and police," said the judge. Then he severely arraigned the parents who would allow a boy of this tender age to have a gun. Of course it is more or less out of the question to stop the making of guns but the parental obligation remains as the judge stated. More than one crime and criminal may be traced to weakness of parental authority and failure of parents to see that the children are restricted in freedom. The boy with the gun was irresponsible but the parents were the real guilty ones and the judge so held as he sent the child to a detention home for four years.

The tariff radio in congress seems to have altogether too much static.

Riley Young wants to know what was done with the $250,000 of nonpartisan league money collected in 1920. That is about twice as much as Newberry spent. In an interview a few days after the sealing of Newberry, stated

MORE MILLIONS FOR ROADS

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington—Within three years the United States will have a system of highways superior to that of any other country. This is assured by the new post office appropriation bill, provisions of which include these items aggregating $130,000,000 to be expended under the state-participation plan in the construction of high-grade roads within the period indicated. In addition, approximately $10,000,000 will be devoted to building of roads in the national forests in 23 states.

These authorizations are expected to result in the construction of more than 25,000 miles of federal aid roads. Previous appropriations have provided for 46,000 miles, which are completed, in course of building or projected and approved, which will make a grand total of 71,000 miles, or nearly 40 per cent of the 180,000 miles contemplated in the system of roads now being constructed. With the rapid increase in the use of motor vehicles, it is a tax upon the imagination to estimate just what this will mean by way of a solution of the transportation problem of the nation. It is conceivable, however, that if this development continues the time will come when a railroad strike will be anything but the menace it is now regarded. Food and fuel supplies will not be cut off, industry and commerce paralyzed, movement of mails tied up and the farmer barred from his markets by a breakdown of rail transportation, if every state is criss-crossed with a network of fine highways.

No longer will there be such a thing as rural isolation. The tendency toward the congestion of the population in large centers may be checked. The back to the farm movement will be given a real impetus. Life will be made easier and more enjoyable for many millions, and relief may be found for strains and stresses in the economic adjustments of society that have been growing more serious in recent years.

What might be done in this line of work is apparent when it is stated that there are at present approximately two and one-half million miles of rural public roads in the United States. Of this total, less than 13 per cent, or about 299,000 miles, are improved with any sort of surfacing, while the mileage of permanent, well-built roads of the kind that is being constructed where the government furnishes part of the money seems almost negligible by comparison.

The average cost of construction of the federal aid roads has been $17,120 per mile. The expense of the work has decreased materially within the last year and the new appropriation bill reduces the maximum participation on the part of the government from $20,000 to $16,250 per mile for the present fiscal year and $15,000 per mile thereafter.

Of the $150,000,000 authorized, $50,000,000 is available for the fiscal year which began with this month, while $65,000,000 and $35,000,000, respectively, will be expended during each of the two succeeding fiscal years. Previous federal appropriations for road-building have aggregated $350,000,000, of which about $287,500,000 have been spent. To this the states have added expenditures of approximately $350,000,000, making a grand total of $687,500,000 as the outlay to date for modern highways.

The $50,000,000 for the current year has been apportioned to the various states as follows: Alabama, $1,035,814; Arizona, $702,188; Arkansas, $836,095; California, $1,641,399; Colorado, $394,117; Connecticut, $320,599; Delaware, $243,750; Florida, $591,217; Georgia, $1,331,972; Idaho, $625,591; Illinois, $2,164,187; Indiana, $1,395,904; Iowa, $1,401,915; Kansas, $1,430,521; Kentucky, $944,780; Louisiana, $584,600; Maine, $493,440; Maryland, $427,086; Massachusetts, $730,784; Michigan, $1,459,688; Minnesota, $1,415,731; Missouri, $662,271; Montana, $1,031,257; Nebraska, $1,064,129; Nevada, $853,621; New Hampshire, $243,750; New Jersey, $693,631; New Mexico, $193,216; New York, $2,464,290; North Carolina, $1,190,550; North Dakota, $176,476; Ohio, $1,832,003; Oklahoma, $1,168,266; Oregon, $738,443; Pennsylvania, $2,265,069; Rhode Island, $243,750; South Carolina, $707,492; South Dakota, $892,707; Tennessee, $1,096,641; Texas, $2,950,115; Utah, $566,278; Vermont, $243,750; Virginia, $971,219; Washington, $736,896; West Virginia, $534,906; Wisconsin, $1,383,211; Wyoming, $623,078.

Of the ten millions to be spent in building for roads, the largest allotment goes to Oregon, where $2,270,000 have been set aside for the building of 210 miles of roads, while $1,246,187 will go to California for 50 less, extremely difficult of construction. Virtually all of these roads will fit into state and county systems and therefore in most cases will connect with and extend the system of federal aid highways covering the entire country.

Federal aid roads must be maintained by the states, and if any of them fail, all government funds for new projects may be withheld until such delinquencies are made good. All the states are required to maintain adequate highway departments to control funds to supplement the money from the federal treasury. The type of surface constructed must be adequate for the traffic anticipated, with reasonable grades, curves and other features. In all roads constructed in part with government money every effort must be made, and additional expenditures are authorized, to avoid dangerous crossings that annually take such a toll of human lives.

An illustration of what a menace grade crossings may be is found in a road between two small towns in Alabama—Arlon and Clayton. In a distance of 25 miles the old road crossed the railroad 14 times. Under the direction of expert engineers, the federal aid road will eliminate 13 of these crossings.

When and where man first began to build roads is not known. But whatever the beginnings, it appears it has been left to this country to carry the art to its final fruition. We are leading the world at the present time, and the policy meets with such widespread popular approval that there is no likelihood of its being abandoned.

his position on that matter and that had he been a member of the senate he would not have voted to seal him. Mr. Blaine's teeth are pulled so far as Bill Morgan is concerned. But what became of the nonpartisan league money? Blaine said in 1920 that he stood on the nonpartisan league platform with both feet. How much of the $250,000 was used to put that platform over with his feet still upon it?

The hand of the clock is going backward. Minneapolis is to have a bicycle parade.

After all the smoke has cleared away Germany does not seem so badly off. It looks as the plan to get a loan or additional time and leeway on reparations for the war costs. Germany does have to pay up for the 1914 to 1918 dancing of the world.

As the political days begin to shorten then the political heat gets more intense.

The senate is going right along with LaFollette and Reed away. Perhaps some business can be accomplished now.

Some folks go swimming without knowing how, others rock the boat and still others get action by trying to beat the locomotive across at the crossing. Same result.

The tariff radio in congress seems to have altogether too much static.

Riley Young wants to know what was done with the $250,000 of nonpartisan league money collected in 1920. That is about twice as much as Newberry spent. In an interview a few days after the sealing of Newberry, stated

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE Loyal Few
The many are a fickle lot, the plaudits of the crowd are not More lasting than the passing breeze which blows the clover bloom:
Who seeks the favor of the throng, seeks that he cannot hold for long.
Mankind reserves enduring fame to grace the dead man's tomb.

The throng is fickle, in defeat, the thrill of victory is swift,
Who wins today is all the crowd has time or love to cheer;
A few brief weeks and once again, a newer favorite shall reign,
And he in turn shall be dismissed, when younger kings appear.

Who seeks a lasting love and true, must seek for it among the few.
The neighborhood wherein he dwells, his friendship must provide
Just what this world can give by way of a solution of the transportation problem of the nation. It is conceivable, however, that if this development continues the time will come when a railroad strike will be anything but the menace it is now regarded. Food and fuel supplies will not be cut off, industry and commerce paralyzed, movement of mails tied up and the farmer barred from his markets by a breakdown of rail transportation, if every state is criss-crossed with a network of fine highways.

The few who know and understand are never turned aside.
The few are true through thick and thin, to keep their love one need not win.
Their faith stays constant to the end as when it first began,
The many cheer and then forget, new suns arise and old ones set.
Fame's contact with the world is all for skill, but friends admire the man.

Who's Who Today

O, DIRE FATE!
I've attempted many a wondrous feat,
And I'm not one to abash;
So I hit upon a happy treat—
I'd raise me a mustache!

How I planned its growth! And how at night
I'd lie awake and dream
Of the friend that soon would come in sight,
How lordly I would seem!

I would part it in the middle,
I would curl it at the end,
I'd grease it like a griddle,
So all might apprehend.

I bought expensive perfumes when
I heard it must be fed,
I watched, and hoped, and prayed, and then—
Ye gods! It came out red!

TAKE A CHEAP TRIP

Dear Roy—The other night I took a trip over the states, by way of the atlas. I came across various towns that had been ideal places for different classes of people to live in. MAJOR TRYGGVE GRAN.
The adventurous blood of the Norwegian courses through the veins of Major Tryggve Gran, the latest man to announce his intention of flying over the north pole. He has been arranging his plans in secret for many months in the hope that he would be able to start before he had to compete with any rivals. Now, however, he has his own countrymen, Roald Amundsen, is already in the north.

Major Gran plans to fly from the opposite direction, however, planning to hop off from Spitzbergen.

Major Gran was one of that pioneer band of fliers who first essayed to defy death by looping the loop—now considered a simple routine maneuver.

Eight years ago, while serving as a lieutenant in the Norwegian navy, he flew across the North sea, the first to make such a feat.

LONG DISTANCE SITTING

One need not be a seismograph in order to achieve valentudinarianism. The arteriosclerosis route. Many youths of 30 or 40 can make a very creditable beginning in the same by purchasing a modern equipment, may a soft yellow lamp, a good murder story and an easy chair! mean a story one can relax in without risk of sliding to the floor, not a chair you put in in easy installments—something built after the heart of the complete seismograph. Should the day split prove ephemeral, after all, I am going to inaugurate a movement, to equip every eating and drinking place, including the public houses, with chairs which furniture manufacturers and dealers call "easy chairs," so that as soon as anybody settles back to enjoy his eating or drinking heart's ease, under the facile early enough to conserve his arteries. Pathologists and physicians are still asking each other whether excessive arterial pressure (hypertension) induces arterial degeneration (hardening of the arteries) or the beginning of arterial degeneration brings about the increase of blood pressure. This debate merely goes to show how shortsighted and perverse pathologists can be. The worst school boy would decide which the hypertension causes, the arterial hardening or the hardening causes the increased tension. Of course it does. The pathologists themselves tell us so, though they are now aware thereof, telling us. They agree cordially with physicians in giving the general etiology (as a pathologist would say) of both hypertension (high blood pressure) and arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) thus:

1. Chronic toxemia (poisons of one kind and another retained in blood or not promptly destroyed).
2. All kinds of infections, acute and chronic, whether of the minor and local class, like chronic running ear or acute tonsillitis, or of the general or systemic kind, like typhoid fever or syphilis.
3. Excessive use (abuse) of food, alcohol, tobacco, some drugs, coffee or tea.
4. Long distance walking.
5. Now, phase do not get excited or anxious about this, for such harmful emotions increase blood pressure and add to the wear and tear on the arteries. If you have started in to fight the game out, no right ahead still, the game will be over in a flash while for you, particularly if you help things along by availing yourself of some of the other life shortening factors, I've given the list. Help yourself.

Now without getting morbidly scientific about the matter, just read over again the brief parenthetical explanation I made in connection with Factor No. 1 of the causes of increased blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. There's a whole spring drive of sermons there. Why should poisons of one kind and another be retained in the blood? And why shouldn't they be promptly destroyed?

One thing I have never seen alluded to in your column, maybe because it is strictly a habit of the mind. But I blow the nose on the street, conserving handkerchiefs for the use of the sidewalk. (Miss B. B. E.)

Answer—Rather worse from the sanitary viewpoint and less desirable. Not only do you have plain clothes sanitary police sort of gum-sucking around nabbing such offenders and handing them over to the cops for a one-day parking refuse in a restricted area—may we expect to employ municipal cleanliness.

The stars incline, but do not compel.
MONDAY, JULY 17, 1922.

Astrologers read this as a most unfortunate day. Uranus and the Sun are both in evil aspect and Mars is threatening.

All the stars bode ill for the peace and happiness of the world at this time. If there is any trust to be placed in the stars, they certainly indicate another war that involves the United States.

Conditions will be existing for decades and all who have power over their fellow men, persons in the Sun are subject to the sinister influence of Uranus.

It will be the tendency more and more for the world to depart from idealism since it must meet terrible tests that seem to prevent advance to high standards of action.

The position of Saturn in the fourth house in square to the Sun denotes a cold summer and England may be especially affected by the sway.

Tourists who pass their vacations abroad may meet with many unforeseen trials and there will be a panic for certain of them, the seers prophesy.

Inventions of great moment to motion pictures again are forecast, but they will not be introduced for some time, owing to economies among producers.

Fires and explosions on ships have been repeatedly prognosticated. Rain and inclement weather, winds and unusual storms, which were forecast, are a winter.

Early plants such as the castor oil bear, which are perennial in an equable climate are often annuals where there is a winter.

Q. Can a caterpillar sting?

C. OF C. OFFICIALS LAUD PROHIBITION

Civic Asset, Officers in Various Parts of Country Declare.

Evansville — Prohibition was declared to be a civic asset by officials of Chambers of Commerce in some of the leading cities of the country in statements sent to The Union Signal, the official publication of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and made public by that organ today.

The Union Signal quoted the following officials:

James S. Cady, secretary of the Evansville Association: "Prohibition has proved an economic asset in our community. It has promoted thrift and has been beneficial generally to the interests of our city."

W. C. Criss, secretary of the Springfield, Mo. Association: "Prohibition has been helpful to the community for the reason that the oncoming generation has not had the access to liquor that has had by young men and boys of four or five years ago. In other words there would seem to be less opportunity by far for the members of the next generation to become addicted to the liquor habit."

In Economic Asset.

Nelson Marshallman, associate-secretary, Springfield, Mo. association: "I believe that prohibition has proved to be an economic asset to this community and that it has promoted thrift among our people. Statistics sent from the various savings banks shows that more people have savings accounts and that the balances are larger."

"The charitable organizations of this city tell me that taking into consideration the recent business depression, there are fewer people receiving aid than during the time before prohibition. The former saloons in most cases are being used for other lines of business."

"Prohibition has been, I believe, very beneficial to the general interests of our city."

William A. Seale, secretary-manager, Camden, N. J. Chamber of Commerce, took a pool of representative citizens. (Two bankers, a clergyman, and insurance man, Salvation Army leader, a Y. M. C. A. secretary, chief of police, a large manufacturer, the director of the Bureau of Charities and his own.

Here Are Answers.

The questions and answers follow:

Has prohibition proven an economic asset to your community? Yes, 7; No, 2; Uncertain, 2.

Was it a benefit to you, among your people, as indicated by an increase in savings bank deposits and depositors? Yes, 6; No, 1; Uncertain, 4.

Are fewer people receiving aid from charity organizations as a result of prohibition? Are there fewer delinquents and dependents in your institutions? Yes, 6; No, 2; Uncertain, 2.

Has the business formerly occupied by liquor concerns now used for other lines of business? Yes, 10; No, 0; Uncertain, 1.

In your judgment has prohibition been beneficial generally to the interests of your city? Yes, 10; No, 1; Uncertain, 1.

Uncertainty in regard to questions 2 and 3 was due to the fact that unemployment and other factors enter into the question in which the confuser to permit of a satisfactory answer," Mr. Seale said.

Enthusiastic Over Dry City.

O. O. McLeish, acting secretary, Rockford, Ill. association: "You may place our organization on record as very enthusiastically and energetically favoring both local and national prohibition."

"Rockford was given Camp Grant because it had had a record for many years previous of being a temperate town. Of course, immediately following local prohibition we had several buildings vacated, but only temporarily, as they were filled very soon afterwards by the normal expansion of business."

E. W. Porter, secretary Concord, N. H. Association: "Prohibition has proven an economic asset to our community. It has promoted thrift among our people, and the savings banks depositors are constantly increasing."

"Fewer people are receiving aid from charity organizations and there are fewer delinquents and dependents in our institutions."

"Buildings formerly occupied by liquor concerns are all used for other lines of business."

"It is my judgment that prohibition has been of the greatest benefit generally to the interests of our city."

MORGAN ATTACKS HAY CROP TO BE PITTSBURGH PLUS RECORD BREAKER

Urges Daugherty, in Letter to Take Positive Action Against Evil.

Madison — Attorney General William J. Morgan Monday in a letter to Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, urged that in dealing with the proposed merger of steel producing corporations, the attorney general "take positive action against the Pittsburgh plus practice, and aid the nation to rid itself of that evil."

The matter that is of vital importance to the people of Wisconsin in relation to the steel industry is the practice of making steel prices upon a Pittsburgh base price plus the freight from Pittsburgh to the point of delivery," Attorney General Morgan says in his letter to Attorney General Daugherty, which follows in part:

Opinions Are Asked.

"It has come to my attention that you have publicly requested expressions of opinion upon the proposed merger of steel corporations which is before your department for consideration. As you know, the Federal Trade Commission has made formal complaint against the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries with reference to the Pittsburgh plus practice, and is conducting an exhaustive inquiry into the matter."

"It has occurred to me that, in connection with the proposed merger, the method of fixing prices may come before you for consideration, and in that event, wish to urge most strongly that nothing be done that will have a tendency to legalize or perpetuate the Pittsburgh plus system, or to embarrass the Federal Trade Commission in its treatment of the question now before it. On the contrary, it is my earnest hope that in dealing with the proposed steel merger it will be possible for you to take positive action against the Pittsburgh plus practice, and aid the nation to rid itself of that evil."

Concern to Wisconsin.

"Pittsburgh Plus has been for a number of years a matter of deep concern to the people of Wisconsin as a whole. The manner in which the interests of the state and its people are prejudiced by the practice is well expressed, though of course only briefly, in the Joint Resolution, adopted by the Wisconsin Legislature of 1917. This resolution, in addition to setting forth the situation as it affects the people of this state, constitutes an official recognition by the legislative branch of our state government of the public interest involved."

"I trust that the time is not far distant when the Pittsburgh plus evil will be permanently eliminated, and if you can do anything to aid in bringing about that result, either in connection with the proposed steel merger or otherwise, you will in my opinion be rendering a very great public service."

URGES MORE TESTS OF BLIND MARVEL

Dr. Babcock Declares Willetta May Retain Slight Remnants of Senses.

Declaring there is nothing impossible in Willetta Huggins' ability to understand words by resting her hand on the head or on the chest, Dr. Robert H. Babcock, noted Chicago physician, in an article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, suggests a test of Willetta's powers which will determine beyond question of a doubt, the question of her powers. Dr. Babcock states he believes Willetta sees and hears slightly, as has been claimed by Dr. Joseph Jastrow, psychologist of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Babcock says in part: "I have known of some remarkable feats in the way of touch and smell displayed by persons whose absolute blindness was beyond question. For instance, in the Philadelphia school for the blind where I was a pupil in my boyhood, was a girl born without sight whose delicacy of touch was such that she was able to read with ease, through four thicknesses of a music handkerchief, the books of raised letters ordinarily used by sightless persons. In the Perkins school for the blind in Boston, I believe was a one time special student (her name I do not recall) who was said to be able by the sense of smell alone to assert correctly the laundered clothes of the children of the institution."

Singled by Faint.

"There are instances of such unusual development of the special senses that it makes it not very hard to accord to Miss Huggins special powers of sense-perception without, as intimated by Professor Joseph Jastrow, fear of being deceived. Nevertheless, I am so staggered by her seeming ability to read what is said by vibrations imparted to a pole resting on the head of the speaker that I still question whether she cannot hear to a limited degree."

Seeks Further Tests.

"There is nothing impossible in Willetta's ability to understand words by resting her hand on the top of the speaker's head or on the chest. I am staggered again by her seeming ability to detect by smell the various colors in skeins of wool or silk, and still more by her recognition in the same way of the colors of natural flowers all the same kind. Therefore, I am inclined to believe that I hope Mr. Hooper will see fit to shut out all possibility of light by sealing the eyelids by means of court plaster."

OLD TOWNS VANISH TO MAKE WAY FOR IRRIGATED FARMS

El Paso, Texas. — Within less than 200 miles from El Paso five old towns gradually given away to irrigation waters, and their former sites are now farm lands.

Cantadero, a peaceful Mexican village 200 years ago, on the banks of the Rio Grande is one of the places which has been wiped out. Although it withstood the storms and hardships, and some attacks from the Apaches within the past two centuries, the water has washed away the thick abode village.

Cantadero had a population of 400 persons. Other towns wiped out slowly by the waters from the Rio Grande and the Elephant Butte dam waters were Camilo, Rico, with a population of 300; San Alito, 250; San Jose 250; Alamoquito 200. Each had its ancient churches, stores, cemeteries and school houses. Those are to be seen no more, except for a few crumbling walls which the water has not entirely melted down.

Do You Get Up in the Morning Feeling Fit as a Fiddle?

Success in Life Often Times Depends Upon Starting the Day Right

TO BOUNCE out of bed feeling fresh as a daisy; to greet the little one prancing before you with a happy laugh, toss him up high with a firm, steady hand, and actually dance with the very joy of living!

Then plunge into your morning tub, if that's your method, dress with a smile on your lips and a firm step to the breakfast table, eager for its wholesome fare— and you spread joy in your household and go forth into the world "fit as a fiddle," equipped with the most powerful of all weapons, great good health. For health is surely yours, and YOU do not need Tanlac. But how different if you arise unrefreshed, aching in every fiber, unmoved by the healthy laughter of the household. The long day ahead will seem to you an eternity, promising nothing but misery, and you just have to summon all your will-power and what little energy remains to you, to drag yourself up, dress and take your place faithfully, discouraged, without appetite, at the breakfast table. Gloom, ennui, depression and endless depressing pall about your whole family circle, and you go out to the battle of life already hopelessly beaten. YOU need Tanlac!

Oh! how many thousands experience this wretched state! Far and wide the wail is heard from those who crawl out of bed with the greatest effort and wonder if their formed their proper functions, and the reason for all this is that too much hastily eaten food has been piled into the stomach.

When you feel yourself getting up in the morning unrefreshed and exhausted, look for the symptoms of stomach trouble, such as dizziness, nervousness, bad taste in the mouth and biliousness. You may be constipated, too, and your liver sluggish.

and of excluding all sounds by plugging the ears with soft wax, and finally test the pole experiment by having some non-conductor, as glass, placed between the skull and the end of the stick.

"In conclusion let me say that I am still of an open mind and desire only to have this question settled beyond the peradventure of a doubt."

"Mr. Joseph Jastrow will never be allowed to conduct another investigation of Willetta's powers," said Mr. Hooper when asked about the report that this was contemplated. "All this publicity of his theory regarding Willetta, I feel has just been part of a scheme to get another chance to test the girl. She will be tested, but by other and more eminent authorities than Jastrow."

Willetta Huggins may appear at the Pageant of Progress at Chicago, as was said Saturday by Mr. Hooper who has been negotiating with the Chicago show officials regarding this for some time, but who has not received an answer in response to his partial acceptance of the invitation.

MANY VETERANS' BEG IN LONDON STREETS

London — One of the most distressing sights to American visitors in London is the appalling number of ex-service men begging on the streets. Former soldiers and officers, some of them with distinguished records of gallantry, have found it impossible to obtain either private or government employment, and are eking out a miserable existence by open mendacity, peddling, grinding handorgans, singing, or giving gymnastic exhibitions in the streets. American tourists and others are openly assaulted in the streets for the price of a meal or lodgings by these unhappy men. A picture of another kind is visible in the poorest blag and hovel, where the court and courtiers of the extrajudicial and impudent among the rich, American visitors would find many thousands of the nation's demobilized defenders, while the money market is flooded on dress, style and empty count down would keep them clothed for a year.

WOMEN OF EUROPE IN BIG MAJORITY

Number 25,000,000 More Than Men; War Years Wider Gap.

Berlin — Man's minority on earth as compared to women, a fact even before the war, has been increased by that conflict until today it is estimated that there are 25,000,000 more women than men in Europe alone.

Official statistics published here show that the surplus of women in Europe has increased by 15,500,000. Before the war there were 1,024 women to every 1,000 men; now the proportion is 1,111 to 1,000. The surplus has been most marked in Russia where the number of women has grown from 1,042 to 1,293 for every 1,000 men. This is on the basis of figures for 22 governments.

The situation has also been notably changed in Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Great Britain, Luxembourg, France, and Italy. In Germany, exclusive of Upper Silesia, there are 1,100 women to every 1,000 men, whereas before the war there were about 1,025. On the contrary, the number of surplus women has decreased in Denmark, Sweden, and the Netherlands.

An outstanding feature of the situation is that girls of marriageable age are in the minority in the surplus, most of those in the excess classification being of older years and many of them widows.

Governor Makes Scathing Attacks in Speech Given Here.

Centering his attack upon Senator Irvine L. Lenoir, A. P. Hulse, president of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, and the Janesville Daily Gazette, Gov. J. J. Blaine, candidate for re-election, addressed a crowd of 200 persons at the Beloit hotel here, Monday night.

Introduced by V. P. Richardson as one of "Bob La Follette's loyal patriots," Gov. Blaine proceeded to deliver his address in the hall of the hotel.

"A hostile legislature made legislation impossible, but I am proud of my record as an administrator," he declared.

Although Governor Blaine criticized every movement against his policies, he was especially vicious in his attitude toward the Gazette, referring to it as a "malicious newspaper."

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I was married quite young—at the age of 22 years. I found I couldn't live with my wife as she ran with two many fellows, and I left her.

I happened to go with a few girls and I took a fancy to the prettiest one. My friend got sore at me and told her I was married and a lot of other things that were not true. Now she won't talk to me. I do hate to lose so nice a girl and yet I don't know what to do.

A few days ago I was standing on the corner talking to another fellow. She came along, but I didn't see her until she was almost in front of me. She spoke to me and passed right on. I called her up that night for a date but she wouldn't go. It seems as if every time I see her she is so nice and pretty that my heart longs for her.

"She told another fellow that she liked me," he said. "You are doing her wrong. I have loved her for three years and so what would be the difference? I am going away for several months and I long to see her all alone. Could you tell me how?"

Do you think this trick I have planned out is a fair one? My friend and his girl are going to a nearby town to a celebration and are going to take her along. They are going to my car to run down with and I am going to see the train down and meet her there. She does not know this or she would not go. Do you think I am doing the right by following her? I really love this girl with all my heart. I want to marry her and how much I will tell you what I am doing—I am suing my wife for a divorce. Only I didn't file the paper here because I didn't want the girl to find out about it. Please want what you think best. I hope I haven't done anything to be ashamed of.

LONELY JACK.
A girl with self-respect will not go with a married man, and so it is only natural that the girl with whom you are in love will not consider you. I would not advise you to carry out your plan to see her in the other way. If she does not know you will be there, a divorce is your only course and you should wait for it before you force your attention on her. Probably when you are free she will be glad to see you again. At that time write her a letter telling her what you have done and ask if you may come to see her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman 15 years of age and have a nine months old baby. My husband and I could not get along and at last he deserted us. This happened eight months ago.

Now he is wanting us back and has promised to do right. He says he is not happy and never will be without us. I don't miss him much as I have boy friends and go out with them. Still I would like a home of my own.

My parents are many other women even listen when I speak of going back. Just what would you advise? He was mean to us and wouldn't get us anything to eat or wear and made us stay at home. Do you think he is worthy of us? WOODBURN.

Since your husband was so selfish and you could not get along together before, I don't know what you would have to look forward to if you went back to him. He thinks he would do the right thing, but he is not. He is not what he wanted he would probably treat you in the same way.

Of course this is a matter which you should decide for you. Consider all the things that are going on and draw your own conclusions. I don't think he could change so much that now he would be a good provider and a comrade who would spend his spare time with you and the baby, taking you to the movies and taking you to the park.

Unless love is your motive, do not go back. I is not enough to warrant a reunion.

GEORGE THOMAS IS DEAD AT 67
Long Illness Fatal to One of Most Prominent Citizens Here.

George Thomas 67, one of Janesville's best-known and most beloved citizens, died at his home, No. 6, Michigan apartments, at 9 a. m. Monday after a five months' illness.

Mr. Thomas, who was spending the winter in California, returning to this city, he had steadily failed in health from a disease which, though taken for pneumonia for a long time, proved to be of a more serious nature.

Mr. Thomas was born May 6, 1855 in Terre Haute, Ind. In his boyhood he worked on a railroad, studying the art of telegraphing. He was a member of the telegraph union and was active in the union's work.

Mr. Thomas had a genial and jovial disposition which made him a friend to all who knew him. He was a great favorite with the children, and he has a firm place in the hearts of many.

He was always the center of a gathering, and was loved by all old and young.

Mr. Thomas is survived by his wife and three sisters, Mrs. Peter McNaughton and Mrs. W. E. Donahoe, both of Los Angeles, and Mrs. O. E. Darnall, San Diego, Cal. The present railroad conditions are "king rule" by Wall street, said Mr. Lanning, who added the public has received nothing from the last two wage cuts. He said the labor board is working for the interests of the railroads and not for the public, and puts labor in the class of flour and other commodities.

Both men told figures to back their arguments. In introducing the speakers, the Rev. Mr. Coon announced that 20 years ago he was a railroad shop worker.

PAPPAS SHOOTING CASE CONTINUED

No Arraignment Till Judge Rules on Murder Charge.

That Nick Pappas, fourth degree man-slaughter, a third degree murder charge, was brought before Judge George Grimm in Beloit county circuit court, Monday morning.

Arraignment was postponed pending the decision of Judge Grimm on whether or not the second degree murder charge could be withdrawn.

Fourth degree manslaughter would bring a sentence of from one to four years in the penitentiary. What arrangements are made for the care of the children of John Slack, Beloit man, made fatherless by the bullet fired from a gun held by Pappas is expected to be considered in determining punishment.

My parents are many other women even listen when I speak of going back. Just what would you advise? He was mean to us and wouldn't get us anything to eat or wear and made us stay at home. Do you think he is worthy of us? WOODBURN.

Since your husband was so selfish and you could not get along together before, I don't know what you would have to look forward to if you went back to him. He thinks he would do the right thing, but he is not. He is not what he wanted he would probably treat you in the same way.

Of course this is a matter which you should decide for you. Consider all the things that are going on and draw your own conclusions. I don't think he could change so much that now he would be a good provider and a comrade who would spend his spare time with you and the baby, taking you to the movies and taking you to the park.

Unless love is your motive, do not go back. I is not enough to warrant a reunion.

2575 AT CITY'S BEACHES IN WEEK

Big Increase Is Also Shown in Attendance at Playgrounds.

Playgrounds and beaches continue more popular as the weeks pass, and record attendance for all of them is in sight. The newly-established Douglas playground is apparently meriting its continuance, being third in attendance last week.

An increase in attendance of 4,321 is noted over the week before last, when the total was 2,500. Last week it was 8,821.

The Jefferson grounds remain the highest, with a day attendance of 838 and evening attendance of 350, making a total of 1,188. The Washington grounds were 751, then the Douglas with 732; the Webster with 625; and the Adams with 490. The grand total on the playgrounds since their opening is 12,997.

The beaches are also well attended. At Holappa's, 1275 enjoyed the water during the week. There were 1,930 at Goose Island and 300 at Hill's beach. The attendance at all three increased from 1787 and 2075 within a week. The total for them is 5,077.

LONG DISTANCE SITTING

One need not be a sexagenarian in order to achieve valetudinarianism via the arteriolestenosis route. More than half of 30-year-olds make a very creditable beginning in the game by purchasing a modest ensemble, say a soft yellow lump, a good murder story and an easy chair—then mean a chair, and relax. The next step is sliding to the floor, not a chair you're in for easy instalments—something built after the heart of the complete sedentarian. Should the dry spell prove especially arduous, one is going to magnify a movement to equip every eating and drinking stroyed? Wonder if long distance sitting has anything to do with what do you think? I don't know. Well, it does, and it is. Compulsory long distance sitting is not so bad, for good antidotes are available to every man or woman not actually disabled by disease or injury. But wilful long distancing is a kind of slow suicide. It helps leuxemia to get in its dirt work on the cells and tissues of blood, including the arteries.

I've never observed a sound thing or two for boys of normal intelligence who smoke cigarettes to the "B" but not for the "A" boy, even for in most instances it is just a matter of mental weakness and that can be cured by a trouncing. I don't know the same applies to girls. Girls who are smokers are generally of the "B" type, and I don't think they need. Now and then one of normal mentality smokes because she has accepted the notion that it is the thing to do. Raise Bees For Profit and Pleasure

Beekeeping for pleasure and profit is carried on by thousands of people in all parts of the United States. Increasing numbers are making it their vocation each year.

Beekeeping is also extremely fascinating to the majority of people as a pastime, furnishing outdoor exercise as well as intimacy with an insect whose activity has been a subject of absorbing study from the earliest times. It has the advantage of being a recreation which pays its own way and often produces a substantial profit.

To be successful in beekeeping a careful study of bee activities is essential. This knowledge is contained in a free booklet on apiculture issued by the Department of Agriculture. Chicago.—Better grades of steers higher on a higher market of week. Other grades were steady to unevenly higher early, but lost all the advance and more during the latter part of the week. Dealers were clearly in evidence on unfinished or grassy steers and yearlings. Good grades showed an improvement of fully one for the week. Medium grades declined in some cases 25c to 50c from the best time early in the week. Lower grades, however, in many instances, lower than late the previous week.

Receipts last week, including Saturday's estimated arrivals, were 21,000 larger than last week, but the July 1 holiday had decreased the latter part of the week. Compared with the corresponding week last year, last week showed a marked increase in receipts and many loads of moderately and long-legged steers on sale, but an increasing number of grassy and unfinished steers late in the week.
